* The availability of the maximum electrical output could be limited. The amount of power available in individual driving situations depends on various factors, such as ambient temperature and the charge status, temperature, and condition or physical age of the high-voltage battery.

 Maximum electrical output of 195 kW: Maximum output that can be accessed for a maximum of 30 seconds, calculated in accordance with UN GTR No. 21. The amount of power available in individual driving situations depends on various factors, such as ambient temperature and the charge status, temperature, and condition or physical age of the high-voltage battery. The availability of the maximum power requires the high-voltage battery to be between 23°C and 50°C and have a charge level > 88%. Deviations from the aforementioned parameters in particular may lead to a reduction in power through to the complete unavailability of the maximum power.

The battery temperature can be indirectly influenced by the auxiliary air conditioner to a certain extent and the charge level can, for example, be adjusted in the vehicle. The amount of power available at a particular time is shown in the vehicle's power display. To maintain the high-voltage battery's usable capacity as effectively as possible, a battery charging target of 80% is recommended if the vehicle is used daily (to be switched to 100% prior to long-distance journeys, for example).

WLTP – World harmonized light-duty vehicles test procedure.

Specifications may differ depending on the battery version and chassis configuration.
